ID and registration requirements

All UK airspace is controlled by the Civil Aviation Authority (CAA) not by the landowner

There are two IDs you may need before flying drones outdoors in the UK:

- > Flyer ID, which shows you've passed the basic competence test
- Operator ID, which must be labelled on your drone

You may need to have both.

The IDs you need depend on the weight of your drone and whether it has a camera.

You must get a Flyer ID if you want to fly a drone that weighs 100g or above.

You must get an Operator ID if you own or are responsible for a drone that:

- weighs 250g or above
- weighs 100g or above and has a camera

Flying in the Open category

The Open Category has three sub-categories.

Each sub-category sets out the weight or class of drone or model aircraft you can fly and the distances you must keep from people.

Open sub-category requirements and distances

Sub-category	Weight or class of drone or model aircraft you can fly	Distance from people and places
Over People (A1)	Less than 250g or UK0, UK1 or C0 class. From 1 January 2026 until 31 December 2027, you can also fly a C1 class drone or model aircraft.	You can fly closer to people than 50m, including people who are not involved in what you're doing (known as uninvolved people). You can fly over people, including uninvolved people.
Near People (A2)	UK2 class. Until 31 December 2027, you can also fly a C2 class drone or model aircraft.	You must not fly within 30m of uninvolved people. If you fly in low-speed mode, you can reduce this distance to 5m from uninvolved people. You must not fly over uninvolved people.
	Less than 2kg and not UK2 or C2 class.	You must not fly within 50m of uninvolved people. You must not fly over uninvolved people.
Far from People (A3)	UK2, UK3 or UK4 class. Drone or model aircraft that is privately built and is less than 25kg. Drone or model aircraft that was placed on the market before 1 January 2026 and is less than 25kg. Until 31 December 2027, you can also fly a C2, C3 or C4 class drone or model aircraft.	You must not fly within 50m of uninvolved people. You must not fly over uninvolved people. You must not fly within 150m of residential, recreational, commercial or industrial areas. If an individual building is at least 50m away from other buildings, it's not treated as a residential, recreational, commercial or industrial area, but you must not fly within 50m of it.

Overriding Rules

Maximum altitude is 400 feet

Never fly over crowds of people

Current Changes

Remote ID (RID) is mandatory from 1/1/26 for new drones placed on the market and they must display a UK class mark

EU C class marks are recognised and treated as UK equivalent and can be flown without RID until 31/12/27

Flying In The USA

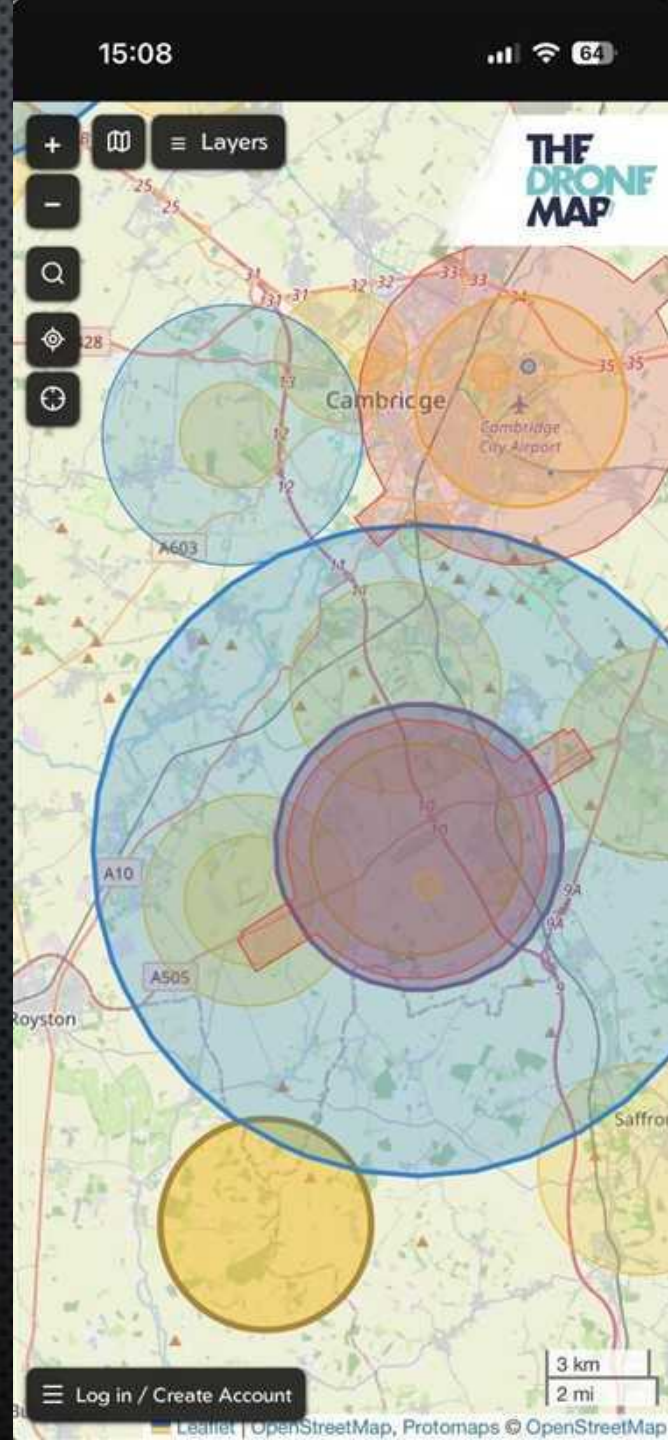

All airspace is controlled by the Federal Aviation Authority (FAA)

Remote ID (RID) is mandatory

All other rules are generally the same as the CAA including passing basic competency tests

There are more restrictions on flying in certain places
